This program offers tools for locating, viewing, recovering lost partitions, and mounting them. The program allows you to find partitions that are inside a drive that is considered to be empty, and to perform the same operations with the found partitions. You can also use it to recover lost partitions and mounting them. The program offers two different ways to use it, by just locating the partitions on your disk, and by recovering and mounting them. Partition Find & Mount works by displaying all partitions on the disk, and by offering you to locate or recover lost partitions.

To locate a lost partition, you will simply have to click on it. Then the program will inform you whether it is possible to mount it or not, and also whether the partition has been recovered or not. You can also select to mount or not the partition. To recover a lost partition, you will first have to locate it on the disk. Then you can recover the partition by clicking on the recover button. You can also check if it is possible to mount the partition. To mount a found partition, first of all, you have to locate it on the disk, and then you can simply click on the mount button. You will be informed if it is possible to mount the partition. If this is the case, the partition will be mounted and will be accessible through the windows explorer. It will be possible to view the contents of the partition. This program comes in two flavors: one is the stand-alone program, the other is a plugin for Notepad++. To use the stand-alone version, just double-click on the executable file. To use the Notepad++ version, follow the link: Download Notepad++ plugin. Partition Find & Mount Pro also offers the possibility to display the partition properties. You can also find and recover some system related partitions (such as hidden system and recovery partitions) that are present on a computer.
